

Providing creative solutions for your radiation curing applications.

Dear Valued Customer,

Effective with shipments March 1, 2011, prices for acrylate and methacrylate monomers and oligomers will be increase 5 to 25 % depending on the grade. Global demand for raw material continues to place upward pressure on pricing. Ocean freight continues to increase as well. All indications are for this trend to continue through 2011.

Rad-solutions remains committed to securing cost effective raw material solutions for our customers in the energy curing and rubber compounding industries.

We will be in contact with specifics prior to the March 1. If you have any questions, please contact your salesman, our customer service, or me directly. We would be pleased to provide additional insight into the situation.

Thank you for you understanding and your continued business

Sincerely,

David Bognar
